GENERAL PUBLIC

Cheryl Wilson, executive director of the Clinton Housing Authority and Park Tower manager, said she learned the supportive housing is slated to go in Park Tower’s backyard. She realizes that is city property and she has concerns about that location. She said Park Tower has been there for years and includes 71 low-income apartments for seniors. She said the facility is a well-established building that is taken care of and is good for the city and provides a safe place for seniors to live. She said meals are also served there and many seniors not living there come to visit. She's surprised no one informed the Clinton Housing Authority about this plan. She said no one from the city contacted her. She has left a message for the City Administrator who has not returned her call. She has received calls back from a councilman and Supervisor George. She is concerned placing more than 100 low-income housing units that close is not a good idea. She understands it is close to many resources. She said the Housing Authority also provides 50 scattered housing locations throughout the community. She is not against helping low-income families but doesn't think this is a good plan for this location. She said much of the green space there will be taken. She said her Board is also opposed to this location.

DEPARTMENT HEADS, ELECTED OFFICIALS AND EMPLOYEES

County Auditor Eric Van Lancker reminded the Board of the informational IUB meeting about the Hawkeye Solar project this week at the County Satellite Office in DeWitt. He said candidate filing for the City/School Election is complete and absentee ballot request forms for ballots to be mailed can be submitted now. He said those ballots cannot be sent from his office until October 18, which is the first day voters will be able to vote absentee in person at his office. He said the last day to request a ballot by mail is October 23.

Supervisor George said the CCDA will join Grow Clinton. November 9 will be a Veterans Outreach event at the Great Revivalist Brewery in Clinton.

Chairman Irwin reported ADM and Wolf Pipeline have reached out and would like to meet for an update.

County Treasurer Dustin Johnson said today is the last day for first-half property tax collections.

DISCUSSION WITH POSSIBLE ACTION

YWCA Supportive Housing Project Update: Shannon Sander-Welzien and John Frey represented the YWCA and provided an update that included the Clinton City Council last week approving a location for the project in DeWitt Park in Clinton. Frey said they heard from IFA and they are supportive of the new site for the project. Frey apologized to Park Towers for the lack of communication about the project. He said city officials have looked into the space at the location in regard to Park Towers. Frey said there is concern from Park Towers about too many low-income families in one location. Frey said the current project does not include a homeless shelter. He said that would require funds from a private donor. He referred to a study where a supportive housing facility that are less than 50 there is no increase in crime nor a decrease in property value. He said they will also explore having a workspace for police officers at the location. He said the YWCA has been a trusted partner in the community for many years and plans to work with the community and make the facility work; they will be responsible and responsive. Frey said homelessness in the community is a serious problem and you don't have to look too hard to find examples of it. Supervisor Srp wondered if the County should wait for action until the City takes formal action to approve the site for the project. Frey said the local commitments need to be made by the end of November. He said there is some time for the County to consider its $500,000 commitment. Sander-Welzien said they would like the County to make a decision soon especially if the County only provides $250,000 so they can work with IFA on the grant award. Irwin said he's frustrated that the Housing Authority hasn't spoken up since this project has been talked about. George said she asked the Housing Authority to attend today because the project has changed and is being built near their facility. George said she is upset with the way some people representing this project have spoken to elected officials and others. Sander-Welzien said this has been a very thoughtful process for more than a year and it was awarded a historic grant of $4.4 million. She added IFA is working with this project to make it happen. George said she wants to know what are the assurances the YWCA can keep this facility running if the County is going to invest $500,000. Sander-Welzien said there is some funding now and they will be applying for more funding. She said they can't apply for funding until the facility exists. Sander-Welzien said the YWCA will continue to ask the community to help. Sander-Welzien said George needs to speak to the Sheriff, and police and hospital officials about the people who are sleeping in the lobbies and around their buildings. Frey said supportive housing is federal funding and there is $60,000 set aside for maintenance with more to be set aside after rent starts coming in. Wilson wondered where the funds will come from when there aren't enough vouchers. She said they feel bullied to give up their vouchers for these project-based projects. She said vouchers should not be given up from a successful program like Park Towers. Sander-Welzien said this is HUD and IFA funding. She said HUD cannot fund the project until there is a facility. She said HUD and IFA are wondering what is happening in Clinton when it gets a historic grant and the project can't get approved. Sander-Welzien said she has been asking about the Housing Authority for project-based vouchers for the YWCA project. She said they have been told they are using their max project-based vouchers. Sander-Welzien said the grant has been awarded without the vouchers. Srp said it's a confusing message from the state IFA requiring this match from the County for the grant, but the State is cutting the County's revenue. He said he has been reviewing budgeting for the future under the new property tax laws and is concerned the YWCA support from the County may not be sustainable. Frey said finding another $250,000 to fill the rest of the County commitment is highly unlikely. Srp said he believes the County has a standing commitment, but County Attorney Mike Wolf had said there have been changes which allows the County to review its previous commitment. George asked to see the plan from the YWCA to operate the facility before the next discussion. Sander-Welzien said she will set up a meeting with George. Wilson said maintenance costs are not small and can add up in a facility that is being proposed. Sander-Welzien said IFA has never funded a project that hasn't been successful, but it also can't make promises ahead of time. The Board of Supervisors will return this discussion to the agenda on October 16.

County Health Plan Agreements with Outside Agencies: County HR Director Ally Ellison said the Health Benefits Group has been working with its consultants and discovered that the outside agencies have been detrimental to the County plan. She said the Health Benefits committee is recommending that agreements not be renewed with L'Arche and the Clinton County Area Solid Waste Agency. She explained the current agreements have a 90-day notification for termination, but the County would like to start the notification process as soon as possible depending on Board action. She added the County's consultants have offered to help the other organizations find a new plan. Devin Land, Director of L'Arche, said they have shopped for other plans and have not been able to find anything better. He said the plan is helpful in recruitment and retaining employees. Srp said this is only being considered for the County taxpayers and the County employees. Srp said this goes along with the conversation the County is having about the budget. The issue will return to the Board agenda October 9.

Performance Evaluation Update/Timeline: Ellison said the timeline to start the employee performance evaluation in November is proving to be tight and she is concerned the appropriate training won't get done on the schedule previously discussed with the Board. She feels to hit the timelines they will need to suppress much of the critical portions of the proposed evaluation. She said many department heads are busy at this time and are afraid boxes will get checked just to get them done. She suggested starting the program in January and move away from the discussion it is tied to pay, but more about aligning everyone on the same page. Johnson said a lot of effort has been put into this program and it is important for most managers and employees. He said abandoning the program would be short sighted. He said the county can make payroll and it's important to get through the pilot process so there is time to make adjustments. Ellison said training is scheduled for October. She said the self-evaluation could be removed and just go to the employee evaluation. Srp said he understands the concern to implement it as presented and is concerned about being able to provide wage increases. Ellison said that is why she is trying to remove the pay discussion away from the evaluation. She said evaluations can still be done but she wants to untether it from pay. She said employees will be motivated for doing a good job. George said she never tied it to pay but understood it could be a part of the evaluation process. Ellison said that may have not been communicated and this is a good time to set that standard. Srp said he can support the hybrid approach to the evaluations. Irwin agreed. Ellison said she will schedule the process accordingly.

Continuity of Operations/Continuity of Government Planning: Van Lancker said this discussion has been rescheduled to mid to late October.
